Goten and Trunks Become Mighty Mask?

Trunks and Goten turn Super Saiyan and compete in the championship round of the Tenkaichi Tournament's junior division. Not being content to battle only in the junior division, the two of them make a bid to fight in the adult division as well. They mug Mighty Mask, steal his mask and costume, disguise themselves as him, and enter the adult division! Their body type looks unusual to anyone who sees them, but their secret nonetheless remains intact from the adults. Incidentally, Goten is on bottom, while Trunks is on his shoulders. Just how strong is this Mighty Mask imposter?

Coming Up!!

YAMU

"With this, the Majin-sama can return to life!"

Like Spopovitch, he advanced through the adult division preliminaries of the Tenkaichi Tournament. He appears more human and level-headed than Spopovitch. However, his appearance, like Spopovitch, includes the same death-like skin pallor as well as a completely hairless head. Additionally, with the "M" mark on his forehead, he could not be any creepier. Although none of the details are clear, Yamu apparently was also a martial artist at one time. As part of a larger conspiracy, he is after the energy of the other contestants.

SPOPOVITCH

"That was easier than I thought..."

One of the qualifiers who passed the preliminaries of the Tenkaichi Tournament adult division. As with Yamu, he is distinguished by the mysterious "M" mark on his forehead. His identity is that of the martial artist who all-too-easily lost to Satan in the first round of the previous Tenkaichi Tournament. Last time out, he was a normal human with long hair and a poor enough martial artist to be beaten by Satan, but this time around, he exhibits the strength of an immortal. Together with Yamu, he steals Gohan's energy and flees with it.

Stage 1, where Vegeta and Puipui fight, is the uppermost chamber, and they continue on downward through Stage 4. Each of these stages is quite large, about the same size as the Tenkaichi Tournament ring. In addition, below all of this, is Babidi's room, and the bottommost chamber is the room that houses the sphere containing Majin Boo.

SHIN

"As the rumors said, you possess a fine soul."

The form that Shin takes to compete in the Tenkaichi Tournament is a temporary one. His true identity is that of a Kaioshin—a deity that presides over even the Grand Kai, the supervising head of the other Kai. In order to prevent a certain plot from being carried out, which could potentially wipe out the universe, he descended to the Lower Realm, and came to earth. Originally, he was the Kaioshin of the East, but as a result of strife in the past, wherein the other Kaioshin, as well as the Grand Kaioshin, were killed, he is presently the only Kaioshin in the Heavenly Realm.

EPISODE 235

Majin Boo's Candy Beam?!

This is a finishing move that only Majin Boo could have. It's the conversion beam he uses to finish off Dabura. When bathed in this beam, Dabura turns into a delicious-looking cookie, and is then gobbled up by Boo. This conversion beam is able to produce not just cookies, but chocolates and hard candies, as well as items besides sweets, such as clay. Why does he turn things into candy? Because Boo's favorite food is candy, that's why!

For Those Whom He Loves... Vegeta Perishes!!

SAIYAN

CHARACTER

They possess combative personalities, and love to fight so much, you could say it was their purpose in life. Even when faced with powerful foes, far from being afraid, they experience joy. When engaged in battle, they prefer to fight head-on and possess a high-mindedness about placing their faith in their ability alone. Their nature in continually seeking to grow stronger is pure.

ABILITY

Their physical abilities, fighting spirit, and other qualities as warriors are extremely high. Further, every time they recover from being near death, their power rises. They are a born-and-bred warrior race and grow in proportion to the strength of their opponents. When turning Super Saiyan, in addition to gaining a dramatic increase in their fighting abilities, fierce fighting instincts are also laid bare.

LIFE

Saiyans take pride in their battle prowess, and they show little interest in any activity that doesn't involve sharpening or improving themselves. Fighting is their life, and they have built up their history and civilization by invading other worlds and stealing the goods and technologies that they require.

MEAL

They consume a tremendous amount of food, yet are not the least bit picky about it. To a warrior of the Saiyan race, meals are nothing more than a means to absorb and amass vital energy necessary to sustain their bodies as warriors. In order to obtain the energy required for battle, their instincts probably do not allow them to be fussy.

The warrior Saiyan race live and die for battle. Their behavioral principles are always centered around fighting, and as such, they all possess paramount battle powers and fighting spirits. Only those Saiyans who have tranquil hearts, as opposed to a more characteristic violent personality, are capable, through intense anger, of becoming a Super Saiyan.

WEAKNESS

Their tail is necessary for them to transform into a Great Ape, but since they lose their strength when it is squeezed, it is also their greatest point of weakness.

NAMEKIAN

There are two different classes of Namekians: Dragon-types and Warrior-types. Dragon-types have the intellectual faculty to create things, while Warrior-types have excellent fighting abilities. Both classes work together under their parent body, the Grand Elder, as they live out their lives. Further, since there are no sexual divisions, a single Dragon-type is capable of bearing offspring.

TELEPATHY

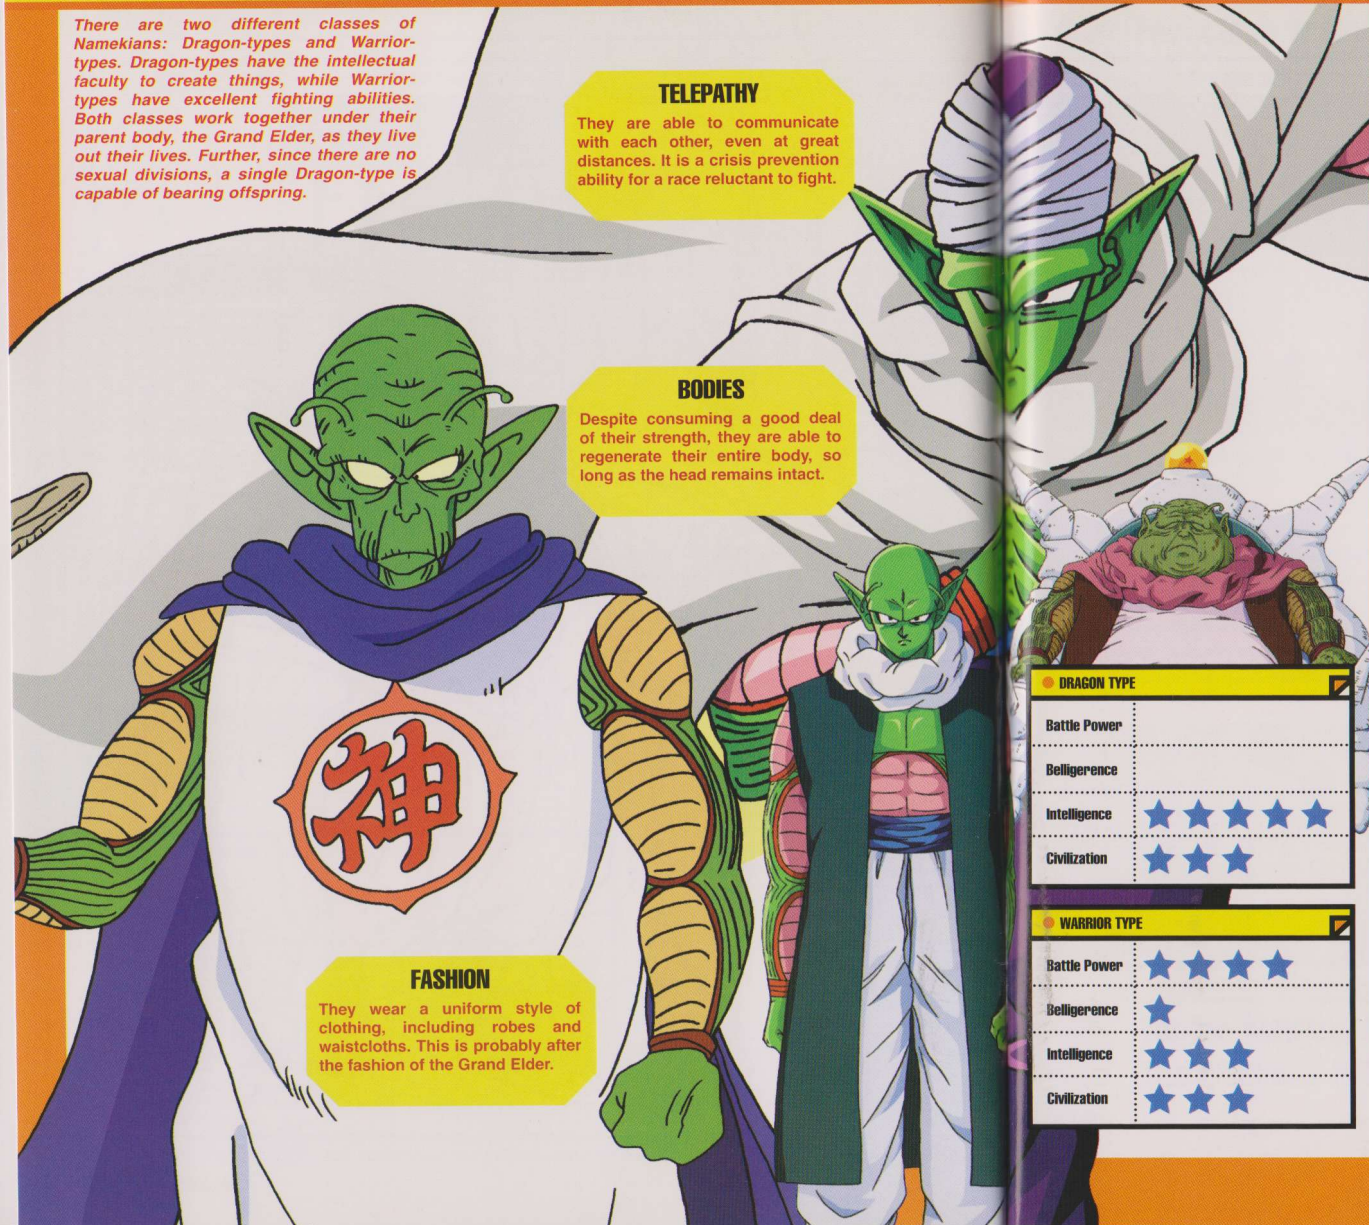

They are able to communicate with each other, even at great distances. It is a crisis prevention ability for a race reluctant to fight.

BODIES

Despite consuming a good deal of their strength, they are able to regenerate their entire body, so long as the head remains intact.

FASHION

They wear a uniform style of clothing, including robes and waistcloths. This is probably after the fashion of the Grand Elder.

CHARACTER

Namekians are an extremely mild-mannered race. Even the warrior types are not as belligerent as the Saiyans, and their high fighting ability is essentially used to protect themselves from outside enemies. They desire peace, and there doesn't appear to be any competition among fellow Namekians.

ABILITY

The Namekians' greatest inherent characteristic would have to be the Dragon-types' ability to create. It is no exaggeration to say that this power, which created the crown jewels known as Dragon Balls, is one of the miracles of the universe. The Namekians also possess several other abilities unto themselves, such as the power to physically regenerate themselves, and telepathy.

LIFE

The Namekians, who faced the jeopardy of near-extinction 500 or 600 ago during the abnormal climate crisis, have ever since lived a life free of devices or scientific technology. Currently, they carry on lives as peaceful farmers, building dwellings of hardened dirt, and planting Ajissa saplings throughout all the land.

MEAL

They do not draw nutrition from what would be called food, but instead procure energy just by drinking water in moderation. The reason they are raising Ajissa saplings is to keep their water clean. The mild-mannered nature of the Namekians might derive from their lack of attachment to food.

Appearing in "Our Savior Mister Satan: A Record of Glory," the stirring epic shown after the qualifying rounds of the Tenkaichi Tournament. It was a masterpiece, where one can enjoy their fill of Satan's great efforts.

Shin

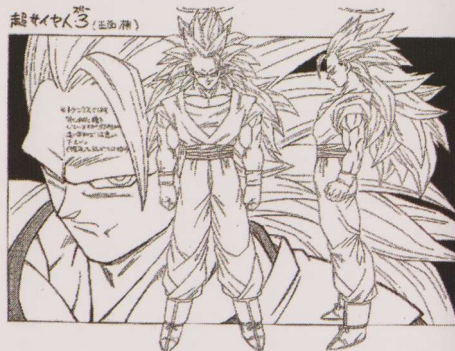

His appearance is almost like that of a young boy, but he is one of the Kaioshin, which reign over the Kaio.

The Z Sword

A legendary sword within the Kaioshin Realm. Up to now, no one has ever been up to the challenge, but Gohan was successful in pulling it out!

Son Goku (Super Saiyan 3)

By training in the Other World, Goku was finally able to attain the Super Saiyan 3 state. The appearance of his face, eyebrows and pupils have changed, and his personality also becomes more stern.

Kibit

His outfit looks similar to Shin's, but his apron sets him apart.

The Elderly Kaioshin

A Kaioshin of old who has returned from being inside the Z-Sword. He has the ability to draw out a person's latent abilities.

Goten

His hair and face look just like Goku did when he was a child.

Mighty Mask

A mysterious masked warrior. He may not strike much of an impression, but this is the real Mighty Mask.
